Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1 to 5, 8 to 14, 17, 20 to 39, 42 to 50, 59 to 67, 70, 73, 74, 77 and 79, in so far as they are drawn to an isolated feline T1R3 protein, a nucleic acid encoding that protein, and methods of use.

Group II, claim(s) 1 to 3, 7 to 13, 15, 19 to 38, 40, 42 to 50, 59 to 66, 69, 72 to 74, 76, 78 and 79, in so far as they are drawn to an isolated feline T1R2 protein, a nucleic acid encoding that protein, and methods of use.

Group III, claim(s) 1 to 3, 6, 8 to 13, 16, 18, 20 to 38, 41 to 50, 59 to 66, 68, 71, 73, 74, 75 and 78, in so far as they are drawn to an isolated feline T1R1 protein, a nucleic acid encoding that protein, and methods of use.

Group IV, claim(s) 51 to 57, drawn to a transgenic animal comprising a heterologous nucleic acid encoding a feline T1R protein.

Group V, claim(s) 58, drawn to an antibody that binds to a feline T1R protein.

The inventions listed as Groups I to V do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The proteins identified in the instant specification as feline T1R1, T1R2 and T1R3 do not reflect a common inventive concept because they have greater sequence similarity to the corresponding mammalian T1R1, T1R2 and T1R3 proteins known in the prior art than they do to one another. Therefore, they lack a common utility that is based upon a common structural feature or combination of features that distinguishes these three proteins as a group from related proteins of the prior art. The transgenic animal of invention IV does not share a single inventive concept with inventions I to III and V because it does not make or use the "isolated" T1R protein of inventions I to III or the antibody of invention V. The antibody of invention V and the T1R proteins of inventions I to III do not share an inventive concept because that antibody is structurally unrelated to a T1R protein.

Claims 51 to 58 are generic to the three disclosed patentably distinct species of feline T1R proteins T1R1, T1R2 and T1R3. The species are independent or distinct because as disclosed the different species have mutually exclusive characteristics for each identified species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
